LATE AFTERNOON SEMINAR
hosted on Zoom by the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies

Tuesday 11th October 2022
4.30 – 6.30 pm BST

Extradition Update: Diplomatic Assurances

The event will examine recent developments in extradition with a focus on the use of diplomatic assurances. The removal of the concept of mutual recognition in surrender between the UK and EU member states under the TCA and recent high profile extradition cases such as Assange [2021] EWHC 3312 (Admin) demonstrate the growing significance of diplomatic assurances in cases where an individual's human rights would be otherwise be violated. This seminar will consider when assurances are required, what type of assurances can be given and how courts can be assured that they will be complied with.

In the Chair

Gemma Davies, Associate Professor Northumbria University
